

<https://www.futureintern.online/job/indian-health-service-internship/>

Indian Health Service Internship Graduate Opportunities 2025

Description

The Indian Health Service (IHS) Internship Graduate Opportunities 2025 provides graduate students with a unique opportunity to work in public health and healthcare settings focused on improving the health and well-being of Native American communities. The program offers hands-on experience in the delivery of health services, policy development, and health program management, preparing graduates for careers in public health, healthcare administration, and policy-making with IHS and other health organizations.

Responsibilities

- Assist in the planning, development, and evaluation of healthcare programs aimed at improving the health outcomes of Native American populations.
- Support health policy research and analysis to contribute to healthcare strategies and programmatic improvements.
- Conduct data analysis and research related to health disparities, epidemiology, and public health trends affecting Native American communities.
- Collaborate with IHS health professionals in the implementation and monitoring of healthcare initiatives.
- Support community outreach efforts, including health education, awareness programs, and cultural sensitivity training.
- Help prepare and present reports and presentations for senior IHS leadership on public health issues, program status, and community needs.
- Assist with healthcare administration tasks, including patient records, quality control, and regulatory compliance.
- Attend training and development seminars to enhance knowledge of healthcare policies, public health initiatives, and IHS operations.
- Participate in team meetings and work with multidisciplinary teams to address healthcare challenges in tribal communities.

Qualifications

- Currently enrolled in a graduate-level program (Master's or Doctoral) in public health, healthcare administration, policy analysis, nursing, social work, or related fields.
- Must have a minimum GPA of 3.0 or higher.
- Strong interest in public health, healthcare delivery, and Native American health issues.
- Demonstrated ability to conduct research and analyze data in a healthcare context.
- Knowledge of health disparities, cultural competence, and the unique healthcare needs of Native American populations is preferred.
- Ability to work effectively both independently and as part of a team.
- Strong written and verbal communication skills, with the ability to present findings clearly and professionally.
- Proficiency in Microsoft Office Suite (Word, Excel, PowerPoint) and data

Hiring organization

Indian Health Service Internship

Employment Type

Intern

Duration of employment

6 Months

Industry

Hospital And Health Care

Job Location

Rockville, Maryland, United States,
20847,, Rockville,,, Maryland,,
United States

Working Hours

8

Base Salary

10

Date posted

December 9, 2024

Valid through

17.12.2026

analysis tools.

Experience

- Prior work experience, volunteer work, or academic projects in public health, healthcare administration, or a related field is preferred but not required.
- Familiarity with Native American health issues, community health practices, or working in underserved communities is a plus.
- Experience in research, data analysis, or health program management is an advantage.
- Previous internships or related roles in public health or healthcare settings are a plus.

Skills

- Strong research, analytical, and problem-solving skills.
- Ability to work collaboratively in multidisciplinary teams.
- Excellent communication skills, including writing, presentations, and interpersonal communication.
- Strong organizational skills with the ability to manage multiple tasks and meet deadlines.
- Ability to learn quickly, adapt to new environments, and apply knowledge in a professional setting.
- Knowledge of public health policies, epidemiology, and healthcare management.
- Cultural competence and sensitivity when working with diverse populations.

Job Benefits

- Paid internship position with competitive compensation.
- Gain valuable experience working in public health and healthcare settings with a focus on Native American health issues.
- Opportunity to contribute to meaningful healthcare initiatives that improve the lives of Native American communities.
- Networking opportunities with public health professionals, healthcare administrators, and policy makers.
- Mentorship from experienced healthcare professionals and public health experts.
- Access to training sessions, workshops, and professional development resources.
- Flexible work hours to accommodate academic schedules.
- Potential for full-time employment opportunities with the Indian Health Service or related organizations after graduation.

How To Apply

To apply for the Indian Health Service Internship Graduate Opportunities 2025, please follow the instructions below:

1. Submit your current resume and a cover letter explaining your interest in the internship, your academic background, and how it aligns with your career goals.
2. Include a copy of your most recent graduate transcript.
3. Provide at least one academic or professional reference who can speak to your qualifications and potential.